Without Semitic, UA comparatists would have to ignore the not-so-obvious relationship of the reconstructed etyma *kwākā, *paka, *yaCkaC/*yakka, *takka, all of which carry the semantic notion 'to cry, to shed tears' and all of which are derivable from sets of rules that have application to hundreds of other forms. Without the originating Semitic forms, the specifics of these and other ...

Stubbs has provided an impressive work worth serious consideration and discussion. Maybe a reason the response has been so muted is because the work is so large and complex that most people would have to invest a great deal of study in order to be able to evaluate it and talk about it intelligently.
