

electroplating and electrorefining pdf

Electroplating is a process that uses an electric current to reduce dissolved metal cations so that they form a thin coherent metal coating on an electrode. The term is also used for electrical oxidation of anions on to a solid substrate, as in the formation of silver chloride on silver wire to make silver/silver-chloride electrodes. Electroplating is primarily used to change the surface ...

Copper electrorefining entails electrochemically dissolving copper from impure copper anodes into an electrolyte containing CuSO_4 and H_2SO_4 , and selectively electroplating pure copper from this electrolyte without the anode impurities.

An electrolytic cell is an electrochemical cell that drives a non-spontaneous redox reaction through the application of electrical energy. They are often used to decompose chemical compounds, in a process called electrolysis—the Greek word lysis means to break up.. Important examples of electrolysis are the decomposition of water into hydrogen and oxygen, and bauxite into aluminium and other ...
